Eclipse
Eclipse (Eclipsis) signifies a defect failing or want of Light; and there are two such, Namely of the Sun and of the Moon.
Eclipse of the Moon never happens, but at her Full, nor then alwaies but when she is in such a Point as the interposition of the Earth deprives her of the Sun Beams, from whence she takes her light. Eclipse of the Sun is not so usual and happens onely at the change of the Moon, as when the Moon, being between the Sun and us, does, with her dark body, hide part of his light from us; which was the cause that Disnisius Areopagita (seeing the Sun so admirably Eclipsed at our Saviours Passion, contrary to all reason, when the Moon was not neer to hinder his light) cry'd out in amazement Aut Deus naturæ patitur, aut machina mundi dissoluetur.

Of 4 Eclipses which will happen this year 1661. we in England shall see but 2; the first of the Sun will be seen in our Horizon, upon Wednesday 20 March; the beginning of it will be 34 m. past 8 in the Forenoon, the greatest obscuration 37 m. past 9, the end 39 m. past 10. the total duration 2 hours 8 m. The Digits Eclipsed 6 and 55 min. The last of the Moon will be seen on Saturday 28 Sept. (if the Air be cleer) The beginning of it will be 41 m. past 1 in the morning, the middle 58 m. past 2, the end 16 m. past 4.
The total duration 2 hours 33 m. The Digits Eclipsed 6 and 55 minuts.
